The news in review: a last look at 1985

A proposed office building at Silver Lake dominated the news in Wilmington in January, 1985. The Baizen Building Corp. of Salem was proposing a two-story office building on a 38,500 square-foot lot on Main Street. Many local officials were upset with the plan, and were seeking ways to stop the builder.

Belgian Prime Minister Wilfried Martens visited Wilmington, touring the facilities of Compugraphic Corp., which is now a subsidiary of Agfa Gevaert, a Belgian firm.

The Wilmington water commissioners announced that they would have an article in the town meeting for bonding for a new water treatment plant planned for North Wilmington.

Joan Tutela of School Street, Wilmington was named Mrs. Massachusetts.

Wilmington selectmen met with selectmen from three other towns to plan a course of action relative to Reading Light.

With plans for an ice arena in Wilmington moving slowly, Ben Ristuccia approached the town of Andover, offering to build it there. Resident of that town rejected the plan.

The Wilmington School Committee was interviewing candidates for the post of superintendent of schools.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski took the wraps of a budget of $24.7 million.

In February, the Wilmington Board of Health issued a citation to Polyvinyl Chemical for a chemical spill at its plant on Main Street.

A youth discovered body of a Tewksbury man near the West Intermediate School. The man had apparently committed suicide.

The Wilmington school bus contract was awarded to the Trombly Bus Co. of North Andover.

In March, selectmen reached an agreement with the Baizen Building Corp. to buy for $100,000 the lot at Silver Lake where Baizen had proposed an office building. Later that month, a special town meeting voted to buy that land.

The special town meeting also rejected a rezoning proposal for a motel at the intersection of Routes 93 and 62, as well as PRD zoning for a condominium project which was proposed for land off Broad Street.

The special town meeting was so well-attended that it had to be adjourned to the high school gymnasium, after Fire Chief Dan Wandell ruled that the crowded aisles and exits of the Barrows Auditorium constituted a hazard.

Wilmington Police arrested a Burlington Avenue man twice in three weeks on drug charges.

Incumbent Selectman Robert J. Cain defeated challenger David J. Fitzgerald in the local election. Three candidates ran for two seats on the school committee: incumbent Robert Peterson, Shirley Callan and Mitchell J. Spiris. Peterson and Callan were elected. Kevin Sowyrda topped a three-way race for a seat on the Regional Vocational School Committee. Others in the race were John Gillis, and Margaret Power. Kevin McMillan, incumbent on the Wilmington Housing Authority, defeated challengers John F. Keiley and Elmer Parker.

Ron McCoy, Jr. won a Gold Key for a photograph entered in the Boston Globe Scholastic Art Competition.

A crowd of angry residents turned out at a public hearing on cable television. One resident was so angry that he turned in his control box. The hearing was for the town to accept the renewal application of the present franchise holder, the Greater Boston Cable Corp. Since then, a committee has been studying the proposal. The present contract will expire in February 1987.

The Silver Lake Spotlighters announced in April that they would move to Woburn, after years of trying to find a permanent location in Wilmington.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce and the Town of Wilmington filed petitions with the Mass. Dept. of Public Utilities challenging the rates and practices of the Reading Municipal Light Dept.

Supt. of Schools Dr. Carol Sager landed a job as superintendent of the Highwood Highland Park school district in Illinois.

Voters in the annual town meeting rejected a proposal to rezone land on the former Roberts estate off Burlington Avenue to PRD zoning, for condominiums. Also rejected was a school committee bid for an additional $340,000 over what was approved by the town meeting.

Articles passed in the annual town meeting included a moratorium on the sale of town-owned land, a computer hook-up for the library, the purchase of a new ladder truck, a water treatment plant, a proposal to study alternate means of receiving electric power, and the establishment of a handicapped commission.

A memorial was dedicated on May 5 to John Rich, a Wilmington Marine killed in Vietnam in 1966.

Tommy Sullivan, who retired as tree warden in April, was killed on May 13 in a tree accident.

Attorney Tim Kane died on May 20. He was the oldest practicing attorney in Massachusetts.

WHS math teacher and track coach Frank Kelley was honored as the "Good Guy" of 1985.

Edward Walsh of Littleton was named town accountant.

The summer concert season began with a somber note, when 12-year-old Jason Stevenson was fatally injured when he was hit by a car on Church Street near the common.

School committee member and former selectman John Brooks died on July 22. Stanley Webber, former principal assessor, board of appeals and fincom member, died on July 17.

The Town Crier on July 17 produced its first edition using Apple Macintosh computers for typesetting.

North Reading residents, learning of Wilmington Housing Authority plans to build three or four units of low or moderate income housing in the so-called "Lost Colony," sought to stop the housing.

Work began in August on renovations and additions to Wilmington High School.

seling Service moved to new quarters at Presidential Park.

Controversy surrounded the Wilmington School Committee after member Shirley Callan leaked the proceedings of an executive session at which the school committee voted to raise WHS

Principal Paul Fleming's pay.

The Wilmington Water and Sewer Commissioners announced a discharge monitoring system to detect dumping of corrosives into the sewer.

The Walker School was torn down on October 12.

An arsonist burned the carriage house of the Roman House. The carriage house had recently been moved to a new site near the football field.

Selectmen were outraged to find that an out-of-court settlement with a group of people who had been protesting at Avco required the town to pay legal expenses for the protesters, to the tune of $8505.

The DPU turned down a request for an escrow account into which electric users would pay summertime surcharges on their electric bills.

The Wilmington Alumni and Friends erected a sign on the back of the press box, naming the football field Alumni Field, home of the Wildcats.

A chemical leak at the Olin Chemical plant on Eames Street resulted in the evacuation of the area surrounding the plant. The leak was determined to be hydrogen chloride.

Following that leak, Wilmington selectmen offered the Board of Health whatever help necessary to solve the town's problems with chemical industries.

Henry Dembowski was named as assistant superintendent of schools.

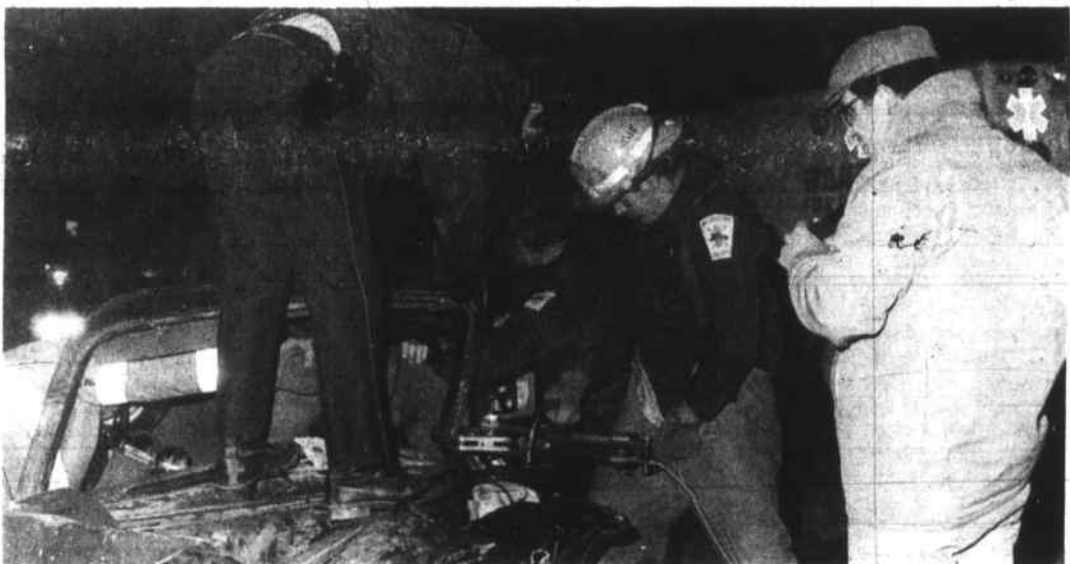

A special town meeting on Dec. 2 passed a by-law regulating underground storage of materials. Voters also voted to rezone off Burlington Avenue R60 from R20, voted additional funding for Shawshen Tech, and for an additional police sergeant.

Woman killed in Federal Street accident

There is no stop sign at the intersection of Federal Street and Concord Street in Wilmington. This may have contributed to a head-on collision which claimed the life of a young woman on Thursday night.

Mary E. Clifford, 20, of Sunrise Trail, Nashua, N.H. died at University Hospital at 1:34 a.m. Friday, after suffering severe head injuries in the accident which occurred shortly after 10 p.m. She was driving a Chevette which collided head-on with an Oldsmobile. Firefighters worked nearly an hour to extricate her from her vehicle. She was flown to the hospital by helicopter.

The driver of the Olds was not identified by police, other than to say that she was a 17-year old Wilmington girl. She was treated at the Regional Health Center for facial injuries.

There were no passengers in either vehicle.

The accident occurred at a fork in the road where the main travelled way goes to the left onto Concord Street. Federal Street goes to the right. The Oldsmobile was travelling east, going onto Concord Street. The Chevette was headed west, on Federal Street. There is a sign on Federal Street to yield the right of way, but that sign is about 100 feet from the intersection on a bent sign post.

Officer Joseph Waterhouse said that there was no indication of alcohol use by either driver.

January: Skies that lower,
Cutting cold that makes us cower.

February: Dig the snow or,
Pay big bucks to buy a blower.

March: With wind-felled trees. And how are
We to cope with loss of power?

April: Mild and gentle shower
Gives us hope for that first flower.

May: At last! But garden sower
Fast becomes exhausted hoer.

June: And soon we long for lower
Temperatures - that tend to soar.

July's sun: It seems to glower;
Burns us crisp within an hour.

August: Steam dog days now are Making everything sour.

Brisk September brings the hoar-

On Christmas

Untitled poem by Philip B. Buzzell

At last I have the thought
Of the probable reason
My annual onslaught
Of sneezin' and wheezin'
Sees it fit to arrive
At this holiday season:
I must be allergic
To holly and snow
Or possibly also
To Ho! Ho! Ho!
Must be I'm allergic
To Christmas!

Letter to the Editor

Dear Larz:

First let me thank you for printing my letter from North Carolina. I have another one enclosed.

Second, I remember you very clearly as a youngster who came to our place when your father, Peter was building our foundation to our house on Parker Street. Find picture enclosed.

The "nostalgic notes" I made in "Remember when" are all true and they happened in the "roaring 20s." Please except a premature thanks.

Paul F. Parsons

Do you remember when?

Kids used to walk three or four miles to school through the snow? Walter Hale cut ice from Silver Lake and Billy Carter used to deliver it to your ice box in the summer?

Milk bottles had caps made of paper and expanded when frozen? Coal oil lamps and lanterns were all we had?

We used to go down to the "poor farm" with our sleds to go sledding?

Mayrides were popular and were horse drawn on "pungs" in winter? Folks wore button shoes and a button hook was found in every home?

We used to skate on the cranberry bog?

Sam Pike owned and operated the Maple Brook Farm and you could get an eight quart can of milk for less than one dollar?

Chickens bought at a store were live and not frozen? Remember?

Ho, Ho, Ho

You say that you found burned toast under your Christmas tree? Well, don't complain to his jolly Santa's helper. Tewksbury resident Steve Winston showed up his Winston's Coffee Shop in Wilmington appropriately decorated for the holidays.

25 Years Ago

The January 5, 1961 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

In unrelated actions, A. Daniel Gillis and William Beers resigned from the planning board. Gillis after five years on the board indicated that the pressure of other activities caused his resignation while Beers, with three years on the board said he had many more duties in his occupation.

Officer Tommy Brennan knocked on the door of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark on Church Street and said to Mrs. Clark, "I think you have a fire." The lady replied that she thought what the officer had spotted was not smoke, but steam from her iron. In the meantime the officer's partner, Officer George Fuller radioed the fire department. The stable in the rear of the house was a total loss, but Mrs. Clark was reportedly very happy with the town's firefighters and policemen.

Father Robert Gosselin, curate of St. Dorothy's Church was to be honored on Sunday by the Holy Name Society. Fr. Gosselin was scheduled to leave soon to serve as a missionary in Peru.

Wilmington Police Department reported that New Year's Eve was a very quiet holiday with no arrests, and no accidents of a serious nature.

Nancy Weinberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Weinberg of Burlington Avenue made a spectacular finish to win the Middle Atlantic Speed Skating Championship in the Midget Girls Class. She captured three gold medals in addition to the championship.

Patty Fiske, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fiske missed winning the Junior Girls Championship by a hair. She won first, second and third and was one point behind the winner, Bobby Sulc of Flushing Meadows, N.Y.

Jeff Williamson of Lowell Street came close, but missed winning the Junior Boys Championship. Dick Ring of Wilmington took third place in the Men's Division and Janet Tighe, for North American Champion came in for a second and third place.

Mike Weinberg made all the finals in the Intermediate Boys. Others who appeared were Janet Perry who won a third place medal in the Girls Midget Class; Alice Perry, Juvenile Girls and Scotty Waugh, Pee Wee Boys.

Robert Letizi of 21 Roberts Road had a mailbox shaped like a 1962 Cadillac.

Ann Sullivan of Grove Avenue was named secretary to the board of appeals.

Pictured were St. Thomas and St. Dorothy's Church. Both were dedicated during 1960.

John Cavanaugh, formerly of Dewey Avenue was awarded an Outstanding Pitcher of the Year Award in the Police Athletic League of Long Beach, California. He was a member of Wilmington's Little League Tigers who won the pennant for sponsor Unit Packet Co. John played third base on the Tigers and on the All Star team.

The West Side Teenagers of Wilmington raised $400 and with the help of Wilmington Ford sponsored a gala Christmas party for the orphans of St. Joseph's in Lowell. The party was held in WHS gym and was attended by 100 children who were given gifts by Spanos Claus.

Ray Fitzmaurice of Ballardvale Street was elected chairman of the Wilmington Planning Board. Herb Nickerson of Marie Drive was elected secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Arbo of Westdale Avenue announced the engagement of their daughter Joyce to Ralph Corbet of Warwick, Rhode Island.

Tewksbury Police News

Maguerite Hembree, 20, of 20A Nickerson Ave., Wilmington was arrested by Sgt. Warren Layne on December 22 at 1:30 p.m. on the power of an outstanding warrant issued for her arrest in connection with a Tewksbury case. The arrest was made after Wilmington Police served the warrant on her.

James R. Waite, Jr., 33, of 14 Pleasant St., Lawrence and Richard J. Waite, 24, of 311 Water St., Lawrence were arrested by Reserve Officer Herbert Hadley and Officer John Powers on December 21 at 6:15 p.m. James was charged with being a disorderly person while Richard was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol. The arrests were made while Hadley was working a paid detail at the Stadium Plaza shopping center on Main Street.

THEFTS: A River Road woman told police at 3:55 p.m. on Christmas day that someone broke into the house which is still under construction and stole a space heater, two pre-hung interior doors and 100 feet of extension cord.

A local man told police at 5:01 p.m. on Christmas Eve that someone smashed the window of his car while parked in the Stadium Plaza and took two sweaters valued at $40 from the back seat.

A representative from Hill Real Estate told police at 1:38 p.m. on Christmas Eve that someone stole a door from a property they have listed for sale at the corner of Oak and Pierce Streets.

Police received reports indicating that a radar detector was stolen from a car parked in front of the Wamesit Bowling Alley on Main Street at 9:05 p.m. on December 22.

A Lowell woman told police at 10:44 a.m. on December 21 that someone broke into her car while parked at the Stadium Plaza on Main Street and stole a radio and tapes.

BREAKS: Reports indicate that intruders forced a door at the high school and gained entrance to the building during the early morning hours of Christmas Eve. A custodian reported finding a door damaged, but indicated nothing was taken out of the building and no other damage had been done.

Police investigated a Christmas Eve morning reported break into a building under construction on Radcliff Road which is off Andover Street.

Police also investigated a reported break into a pickup truck parked at the Jade East Restaurant on Main Street at 7:35 p.m. on December 22.

MISCELLANEOUS: A tractor trailer truck from the Florida based Tanbac Inc. making a delivery to the DeMoulas warehouse on East Street ruptured a fuel line and leaked fuel over several town roadways Christmas night. According to reports, police were told at 6:32 p.m. that the truck was going south on Main Street leaving behind a trail of fuel. Officer John Barry found the truck parked at the East Street DeMoulas warehouse and told the driver, an Illinois resident, that the fuel was leaking.

State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering officials and town crews spread sand over the spilled fuel. A street sweeper machine later came by to take the contaminated sand to proper disposal facilities. State officials were given the information concerning the owner and driver and will follow up on the incident.

The operator of a reportedly stolen car struck a pole at the corner of Florida Road and Brown Street at 9:33 a.m. on Christmas Eve. Officer Allan Stephens was told by witnesses that a man dressed in a white suit like those worn by bakers jumped out of the car and fled the area on foot before police could arrive. The car, reports indicate, is owned by a Somerville resident who reported it had been stolen from Boston.

Vandals smashed some 40 to 50 cement building blocks stored at the building site of an addition to the Brooks Drug Store on Andover Street, according to a report filed Christmas Eve morning by workers from the Haggetts Construction Company of Conn.

Police implemented rodeo tactics on December 23 to help round up five cows and two sheep that got loose from a Livingston Street corral shortly before 11 p.m. Police received several reports from area residents concerning the animals roaming the neighborhood near the intersection of East Street and Livingston Street. The owner of the livestock also appeared at the scene to take the animals back to their corral.

A Chandler Street resident came to the police station at 5:35 p.m. on December 23 to report that he had just found an undisclosed amount of cash on Main Street near the Holiday Inn.

STOLEN VEHICLES: Tewksbury State Hospital Police recovered a 1985 Chevy Camaro on State Hospital grounds on December 21. According to reports, the vehicle is owned by a Billerica resident who reported it had earlier been stolen from Burlington.

Stories of Sabra Gowen Jaquith

©Copyright 1986
by Capt. Larz Neilson

On November 20 this paper presented a report of the company of captain John Harnden, and how that company was made up, in the days after Concord and Lexington. The story was a part of what may be termed a study of the known facts concerning Captain John Harnden and the men under his command.

In one sense the story ends as the Wilmington and Reading companies arrive at Bunker Hill, just as the British troops have captured the redoubt, on the hill. But in another sense, it continued to 1891, with a story told by Sabra Gowen Jaquith, daughter of Corp. John Gowing, and, incidentally, mother of the lady who was known as Sabra D.J. Carter, she who established the S D J Carter Lectures in Wilmington.

Back in the year 1891 an unnamed newspaper writer for the Boston Herald suffered the indignity, it seems, of being misquoted by a typesetter or a proof reader. He was reporting about a visit to an old lady of Wilmington named Sabra Gowen Jaquith. She lived on Ballardvale Street.

Sabra was the daughter of John Gowing (Gowing) the man who enlisted as a corporal in Capt. Harnden's company on April 20, 1775. Sabra was possibly the last person alive, in Massachusetts, who could remember the events of the death of George Washington. That was the story which the newspaperman was seeking.

He got a lot of other information about old Wilmington, and of the construction of the Middlesex Canal. He was told how the ladies dressed for the arrival of the first canal boat and how a little girl (Sabra) shouted as loud as she could from the steps of the school house which stood down near the canal on Batters Row.

And, incidentally, Sabra says that the first canal boat was pulled by a pair of mules. That might possibly be news to the people of the Middlesex Canal Association. All available literature points to the boats and barges being pulled by horses, or by oxen.

The entire story may be read in the Wilmington Public Library, in a clipping in Miss Swain's Notebook. Mary Swain was not thinking of the date when she clipped the story from the Herald. The date as shown is "BER 11, 1891." The date could be in September, October, November or December. It probably was December, for the reporter tells how Sabra, in spite of her age, kept putting more wood into the fireplace for the fire.

Nearly 100 years old and "bright as a dollar and witty withal" the reporter found her to be. "Seated before a cheerful fire that was burning in an open grate, her face, which the finger of time had marked with its withering touch, was framed by a black cap, relieved with a fluffy lace."

"My father was John Gowen and my mother's name was Keziah Jaques" she is reported as saying. "I was born in the house now owned by Mrs. Charles Swain. Father was a farmer and grandfather also followed that occupation."

"I remember perfectly well when Washington died and what a shock it was to the country when it was received."

"We were seated at the dinner table when a neighbor rushed into the house and told us about it. Father pushed his chair back and cried so that he couldn't eat any more that day. When the funeral services were held in Boston that winter father hitched up a horse and went over the road to the city. He was deeply impressed with the solemn event for he had known Washington and admired him for his virtues."

"Father fought at Bunker Hill. He was a captain, and had two ensigns under him."

There is where the error occurred. If that statement had read "father, a corporal in Captain Harnden's Company, fought at Bunker Hill. Later he was a captain, and had two ensigns under him" there would have been no misunderstanding.

But any historian who was searching for stories of Bunker Hill would immediately throw out the story about John Gowing, for there was no Capt. John Gowing at Bunker Hill. It was that simple.

John Gowing, who served in the Minutemen of Wilmington, and was a corporal in Capt. Harnden's company saw further service in the Revolutionary War. He served at several places. The record is confusing, because both he and his father John served, and the compilers of the volumes called "Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War" confuse the two men, one for the other.

But, after participating in several campaigns John Gowing returned home to Wilmington and married Keziah Jaques in 1781.

In January 1782 the Wilmington records refer to him as Captain John Gowing. He was the commander of the Wilmington Militia. Presumably there were two junior officers with the rank of ensign, as Sabra related.

Now, gentle reader, rewrite the paragraph or whatever it was intended to be:

"Father fought at Bunker Hill."

"Later he was a captain, and had two Ensigns under him."

That makes it clear that it was not Captain Gowing, but Corporal Gowing who fought at Bunker Hill. And, what Asa Sheldon may have heard, but did not report in the book he wrote in or about 1862 was said, nearly 30 years later, in a farmhouse on Ballardvale Street, near the spot where Tewksbury, Wilmington and Andover meet. That farmhouse, easterly of Ballardvale Street, was torn down within the past year.

Mary Swain

Mary Swain, one of three sisters, kept a clipping book in which she pasted newspaper articles which were of interest to her. The book is now in the Wilmington Library. It is in that book that the clipping about Sabra Gowen Jaquith and her father, who fought at Bunker Hill appears.

A note from Dan Gillis to the citizens of Wilmington

I am proud to say that I spent one Sunday in front of John Lucci's and Mike DeMoulas's gathering signatures from you, my fellow citizens of Wilmington. Many more people across the state spent many more hours which resulted in the total of 137,152 signatures which forced the Legislature and the Governor to pass the repeal of the Surtax. It seems too bad that we must force lawmakers to bend to our wishes, even though they promised this when they were elected. Any person who would like to help in the future, please contact me at 658-3454 or write directly to Citizens for Limited Taxation, 47 West St., Boston, MA 02111.

If we must join hands to help each other, Let's do it.

Seventh graders earn split

The Wilmington seventh grade travelling basketball team split a recent weekend series, winning over Billerica, 29-24 and losing to Reading, 32-36.

On Sunday the Wildcats hosted Reading at Shawsheen Tech. At the half, the locals were down by nine points, but came out during the third period and scratched back to a 28-17 lead.

After a couple of tough rolls midway through the fourth period, Reading took the lead and was able to protect the four point margin for the balance of the game.

High scorer for the Wildcats was Michael Hawley with 10 points (game high). Other leading scorers were Greg Scarfo (eight points) and Bobby Cavinio (eight points, seven rebounding). The balance of the scoring was contributed by Jimmy Maiella, John Ciarmaglia and Jimmy Palman with two points each. Jennifer Bowen added two points after collecting an offensive rebound.

Centers Joey Cunningham (two rebounds) and Keyin DiGiovanni (five rebounds) both worked hard under the boards. Eric Heseltun stripped away two steals and collected four rebounds. Chris DeLucia and Richard Barletta rounded out the home team effort with some sharp defensive work and key assists.

On Saturday, December 28 the Wildcats travel to Lowell hoping to improve their 4-3 season record.

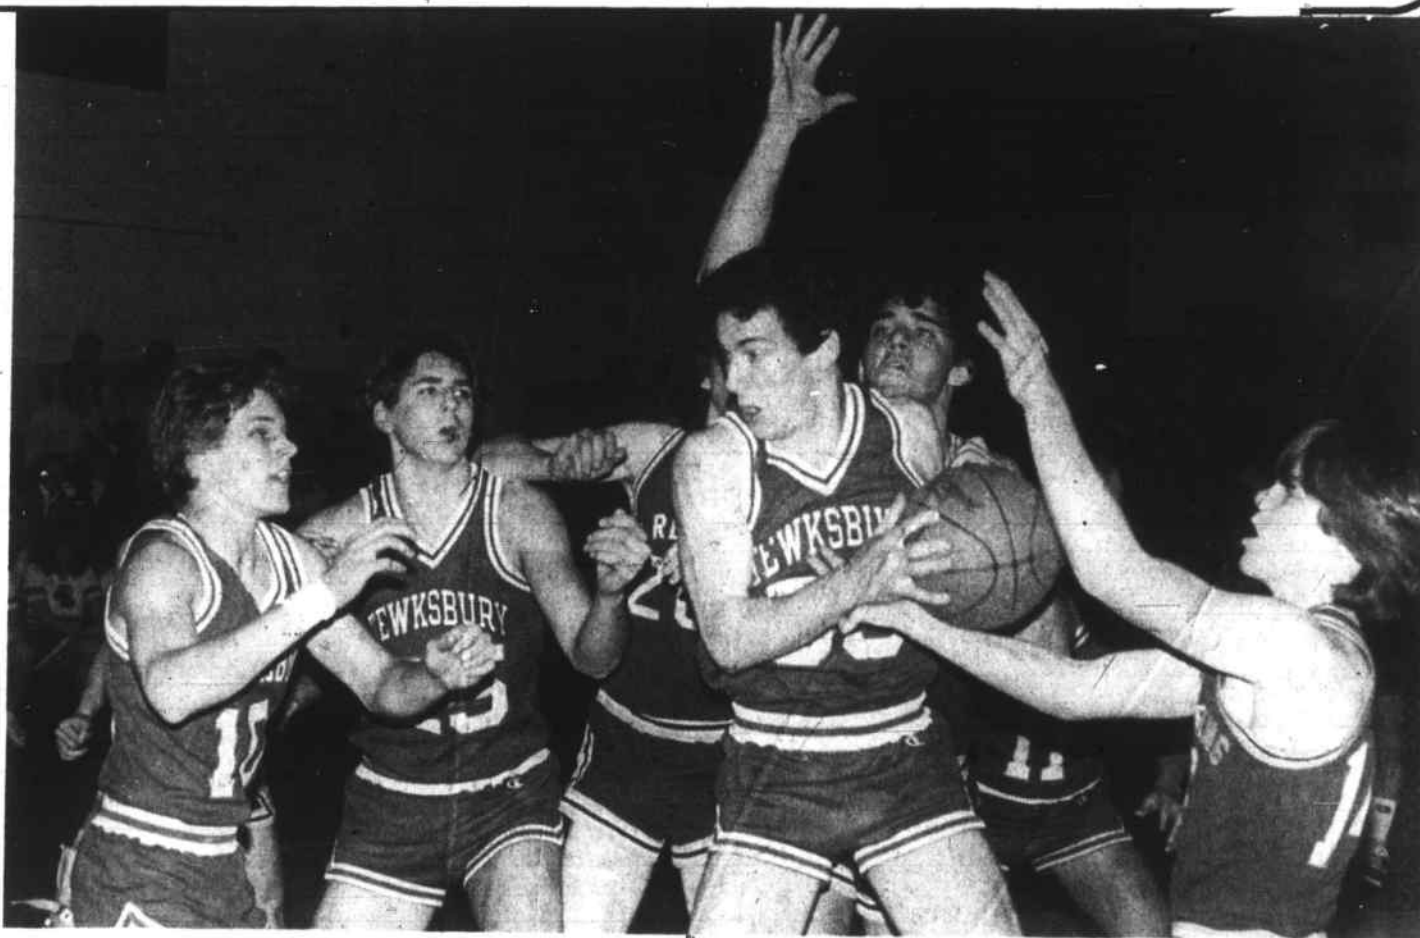

Eighth graders

Saturday December 14 the Wilmington Wildcats eighth grade travel team met Methuen. In a very physical, fast moving game where the score was tied with an outside shot by Andy Parr with only 14 seconds left in regulation time. But alas, by the end of overtime Methuen could not be denied its home victory and came away with a 68-58 game win.

The young Wildcats played a super game, with Jason Oliver hitting high score of 19 points. Teammates Chris Riccio and Neal Pentinen each racked up nine points, followed by Mark Bobek and Andy Parr with six points each. Sean Colclough hit the boards for five points and Brian Gillis sank two, with one for Scott Tuxbury from the foul line. Joey McFadyen, Joey Mahoney and Mike George played a very strong defensive game.

Sunday, December 15 the young Wildcats entertained North Andover-B at Shawsheen Tech, and with a complete team effort took the lead in the first quarter and never relinquished it to win the game, 55-13.

Mark Bobek hit the hoop for a high of 15 points, Neal Pentinen followed with 12 and Andy Parr put in eight. Joey McFadyen and Mike George for four points each, while teammates Sean Colclough and Jason Oliver added three points each, with Joey Mahoney, Scott Tuxbury and Chris Riccio putting in two each.

Dunlay controls boards

TMHS senior forward Bob Dunlay has complete control of this rebound with support from teammates Rob Aylward and Dan Britten. The Redmen were defeated by North Reading in tourney action.

Mite A's take title

Plenty of hustle and strong defense were the two main ingredients that won the championship in the Scott Hasseltine Memorial Mite Tournament for the Tewksbury Mite A's.

Goalie Mike Correia posted a 5-0 shutout over Andover in game one. Along with Mike's fine goaltending, excellent defense was provided by Steven Patterson, Brian O'Neill, Chris Bibb and Rob Joyce.

On offense, Bryan Kelley had two goals, with Don Bibb, Ryan Columbus and Doug Lattatore scoring one each and Peter Butt chalking up three assists.

Game II vs Arlington was tied 2-2 at the end of regulation time. Forwards Kevin Andriolo, Brian Saber, Brian Hanson and Brian Gangemi each played an outstanding game of two way heads up hockey.

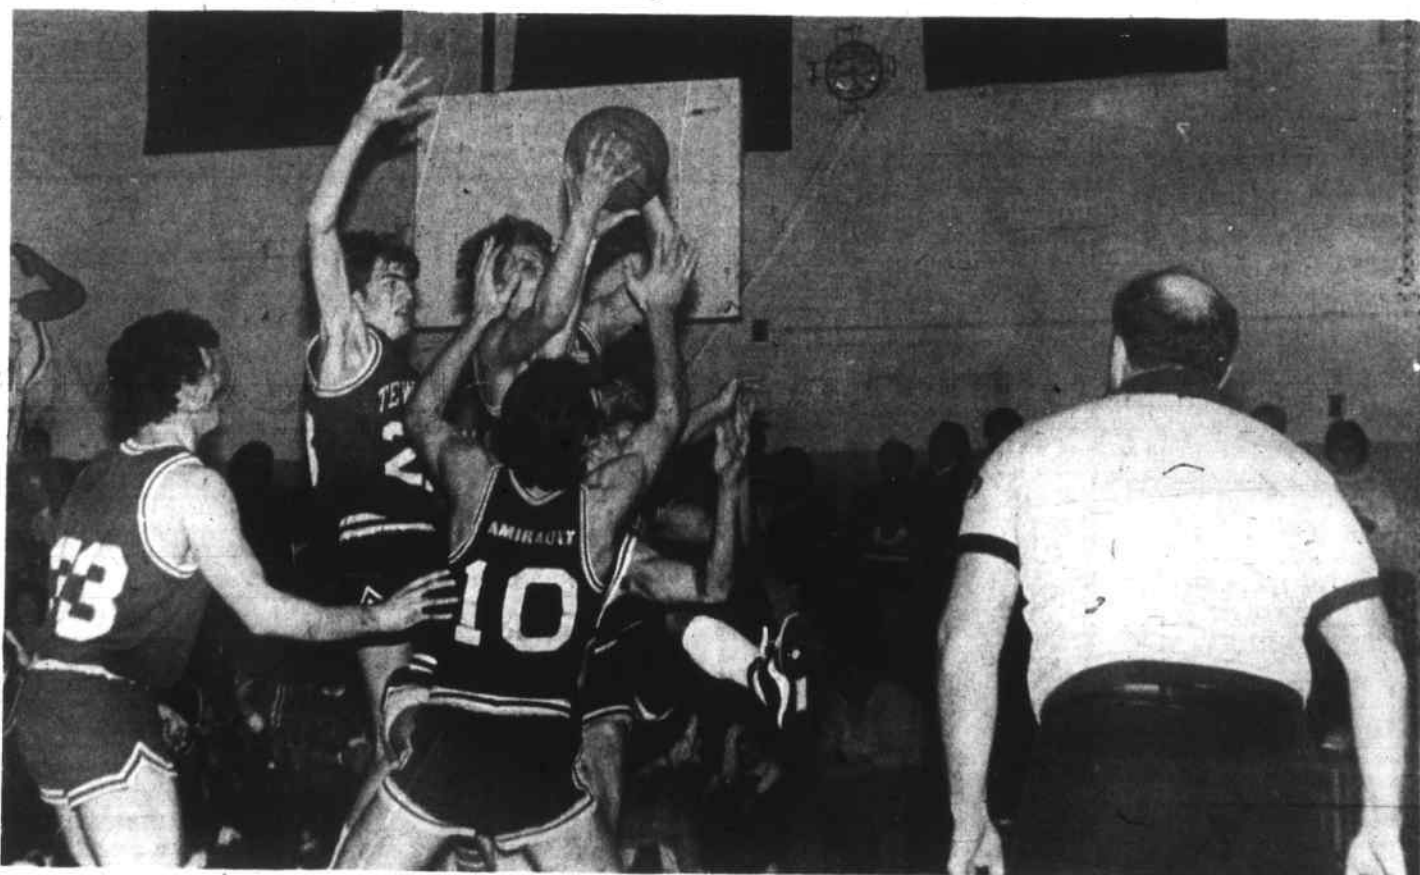

At the end of one overtime period with the score still tied at 2-2, the game moved to a mini one-on-one shootout to decide a winner.

With Mike Correia in goal and Don Bibb shooting, the competition continued through four rounds still tied. In the fifth round Correia made the same while Bibb scored to end the game and allow Tewksbury to proceed to the final game vs Saugus.

The championship game - Tewksbury vs Saugus was a hard fought battle between two evenly matched teams. Tewksbury took a first period lead on a goal by defenseman Rob Joyce, with assists going to Brian Gangemi and Ryan Columbus. Tewksbury upped its lead in the second period to 2-0 with a goal by Don Bibb assisted by Bryan Kelley.

Period three saw Saugus come roaring back with two unanswered goals to tie the score at 2-2.

With three and a half minutes left to play, Tewksbury's hard work and good passing attack payed off once again when Bryan Kelley fed Peter Butt a pass that Pete converted into the game winning goal, clinching the championship for Tewksbury.

Tough TMHS defense

The Tewksbury High School defense applies some heavy pressure to the North Reading shooter during Wilmington Christmas Tournament action Friday night. The Redmen lost in first round action, 47-45.

Wilmington Police News

Marguerite Hembree, 20, of 20A Nickerson Ave. was arrested by Officer Mauriello on December 22 on a warrant from Tewksbury police. She was released to the Tewksbury police.

A dog in effect committed suicide that same afternoon at a Morningside Drive address. He jumped or fell off the porch, and hung himself on his leash.

A fire, in an automobile on the Fred E. Cain bridge, at 10:22 p.m. resulted in the arrest of Robert Jamieson of Billerica. He was arrested by Officer Neville, and released on bail at 11:30 p.m.

At 5:47 a.m. a fire was reported at Stelio's Restaurant, on Lowell Street. It turned out to be smoke coming from the dishwasher.

A truck carrying explosives turned over on Andover Street at 7:33 a.m. near the McDonald home. There was no explosion, nor was there any traffic hazard. The fire department was called to guard the truck.

The Monks Company, of Upton Court reported, at 8:34 a.m. that BBs had been shot through two plate glass windows.

At 3:55 p.m. that same day a report was received from the Valley Ambulance Company of Billerica. One of its vehicles, a chair ambulance, had been sideswiped while on Federal Street. The car was a Honda, but the ambulance driver was unable to get the license plate number.

The police received several telephone calls, from the Silver Lake area. The first was on the 23rd at 5 p.m. A lady said she was "red up" with the racing ATVs and RVs on Silver Lake. They were creating hazards for people who were skating and walking.

She was told that it is difficult to apprehend operators of such vehicles on the ice.

At 7 p.m. on the 23rd a report was received of an alarm on Eames Street, near or at the Olin plant. It was followed up by another, from Olin, saying that it was not hazardous to health.

At 8:25 p.m. some chunks of concrete were found in the middle of the road near 296 Woburn St. by officers Lynch and LeGrand. They put them to the side of the road. The police found a bicycle which they took to the station.

At 8:58 p.m. a telephone call from Kenneth MacArthur of Lucaya Circle, reported that his 1984 Chevy wagon was heavily damaged in the undercarriage and oil pan because of striking some concrete rocks on the road at a site that did not seem to be specified.

Then, at 8:45 p.m. the police received a telephone call from a man who apparently was the father of the boy who owned the bike. He was told of the problem.

At 3:34 a.m. on December 24 a fire in the Garden of Eden burned a motor vehicle. It was towed away in the morning.

At 7:45 a.m. on December 24 Dennis Brunelle of Lowell was arrested on a Lowell warrant, by officers Hancock and Miller. The car he had was sent to Lowell and Brunelle was taken to Woburn Court.

At 12:15 p.m. a woman who works at Digital, on Ballardvale

Street, reported that her car, a 1984 Datsun had been stolen. At 12:35 p.m. the police received a report that the Datsun had not been stolen. It had been repossessed by her husband on the advice of his lawyer. The couple, it seems is getting a divorce.

Christmas came a little early for the Wilmington police this year. At 11:42 p.m. on December 24, Officer LeGrand came across Santa Claus and an Elf, dressed in their customary costumes, wandering down the center of Main Street near Lowell Street. Officer LeGrand noted that the two were "sent on their merry way."

At 5:10 a.m. there was an alarm. Someone was breaking into the Video Paradise store at 240 Main St., Sgt. Duffy, and officers Burke, Miller and Shepard responded. They found Joseph Menzies, of Methuen at the store and charged him with possession of burglar tools, attempted break and entry, and possession of a hypodermic needle. He was also arrested on a warrant.

At 11:20 a.m. bail, $500 cash was set for Menzies by the bail commissioner. Menzies told the police they would have to take him to the hospital because he was on a $500 a day heroin habit. He would kill himself, the police report he said, if he did not get out.

At 12:20 p.m. a King Street resident called the police to report that someone had put sugar in his gas tank.

Then, at 8:05 p.m. a motorist reported that someone had climbed over the fence at Brewsters. A police cruiser was dispatched, and together with the guard the area was searched. The results: negative.

At midnight the police log noted that Menzies was "sleeping."

Avco had some protestors in the lobby at 12:35 a.m. on Thursday, the 26th. Lt. LaRivee, Inspector Ritchie and officers King and Peterson responded, and arrested Katherine Finn, 26 of West Medford; Kathleen Perez, 28 of Somerville; David Specht, 26, of Jamaica Plain and John T. Finn, 26 of West Medford.

A telephone call, at 2:15 a.m. on December 27 reported noises at the old Buzzell School, now being rebuilt as a senior citizens' center.

Four to six posts that held up the roof in back had been knocked down. The posts, made of four by fours, were broken. Steel reinforcements for the posts had been knocked out of position and broken. Supporting angle irons, in back, were bent out of position.

Gasoline trails were found on the back parking lot, near the site of the posts, and several of the spills were more than just streaks. The fire department was called to wash down the gas.
